

An investigation of the spatial and temporal distribution of people based on indoor and outdoor positioning data

Guangyuan Zhang

- methods to compute the time and space distribution and moving patterns of outdoor people in city scale
- to compute the time and space distribution and moving patterns of indoor people in one building scale
- difference, features and relationship between the two scales

